COURSE TITLE	Creative Digital Media & Literacy (combined course)
LEVEL	Creative Digital Media: National 4 & Literacy: National 5
ENTRY REQUIREMENTS	No formal requirements, though skills in Media, Art, or English are beneficial. (While N4 Literacy is preferable, the course provides sufficient flexibility & personalisation to enable learners to achieve independently & at various paces.)
COURSE DESCRIPTION	This vocational Media course, delivered by a Media & English specialist, will give students the opportunity to gain both the N4 Skills for Work course in Creative Digital Media and National 5 Literacy in combination.
	The Creative Digital Media course has been designed to provide an introduction to the digital media industry and its various sectors, including but not limited to: moving image, radio, computer games and software (including app design), & publishing including ebooks and websites. Candidates will gain an overview of these sectors and the opportunity to develop some of the skills used within the digital media industry. A key feature of Skills for Work Courses is the emphasis on experiential learning and the combined Creative Digital Media and Literacy course is no exception. Candidates will be learning both through practical experience, and by reflecting on performance and products at all stages of these experiences. Needless to say, strong literacy skills are considered to be essential tools by both employers and FE establishments. The nature of this course allows candidates to develop and consolidate their literacy skills and, during study of aspects of media that they enjoy, they can naturally overtake the National 5 Literacy outcomes outwith an English context.
COURSE ASSESSMENT	There is no external examination for either aspect of this course. Neither qualification is graded- instead units and outcomes are internally assessed pass/fail as follows: National 4 Creative Digital Media: Unit 1: Introduction to the Industry Unit 2: The Creative Process Unit 3: Hardware and Software Unit 4: Production Project National 5 Literacy: All four of the outcomes for N5 Literacy can be overtaken naturally during the completion of the Creative Digital Media course. These are as follows: Outcome 1: Read and understand detailed word-based texts. Outcome 2: Listen to and understand detailed spoken communication. Outcome 3: Write detailed technically accurate texts. Outcome 4: Talk to communicate, as appropriate to audience and purpose.
SKILLS FOR LEARNING, SKILLS FOR LIFE and SKILLS FOR WORK INCLUDED	This course offers learners opportunities to develop and extend a wide range of skills, including but not limited to: communication, independent learning, critical literacy and critical thinking, personal, interpersonal and team working, and creative thinking, as well as developing cultural awareness. As well as the traditional literacy skills embedded in the course, Media literacy is an increasingly essential skill. The ability to evaluate and negotiate rather than blindly accepting what the mainstream media tries to persuade us of is central to becoming an independent, thinking member of society.
